

Promoting Sexual Health and Preventing STI and HIV/AIDS through Schools
A CASH Project in 2007-08

The Canadian Association for School Health (CASH) is pleased to be working with the Society of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists of Canada and other organizations in a series of activities and other organizations to encourage effective sexual health promotion through schools.

CASH is a long-term partner in the award-winning web site on sexual health www.sexualityandu.ca and provides guidance on the content on the teachers' section of that web site.

The current series of activities includes:

- Sponsored speakers at the June 2007 School Health Conference (co-sponsored by the Public Health Agency of Canada)
- Conducting a scan of the national and provincial/territorial school activities related to sexual health
- Focus group reviews of the teachers section of two web sites aimed at teachers and sexual health promotion
- Preparing a series of webinars on school-based and school-linked sexual health promotion
- Preparing a series of articles for the teachers magazine Health and Learning published in cooperation with the Canadian Teachers Federation with the support of the Canadian Council on Learning
- Preparing a series of inserts for the public health journal in cooperation with the Canadian Public Health Association.

For more information about this project and other school sexual health promotion news, contact info@cash-aces.ca